

INITIAL ESTIMATE COTTON PRODUCTION ANNOUNCED TUESDAY

APPROXIMATELY HALF MILLION BALES LESS THAN LAST YEAR'S HARVEST

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8. (AP)—The agriculture department forecast today a cotton crop of 11,412,000 bales in its first estimate of this year's production.

This estimate of production in bales of 500 pounds gross weight was based on conditions as of August 1, and on the area in cultivation July 1 adjusted to abandonment. The cultivation area, less the 10-year average abandonment of acreage, was placed at 24,424,000 acres.

Last year 24,248,000 acres were harvested to produce 11,943,000 bales, while in the ten years 1928-37, an average of 34,984,000 acres were harvested to produce an average of 13,800,000 bales.

The condition of the crop Aug. 1 was 74 per cent of a normal, compared with 78 a year ago, and 70, the 1928-37 average.

Indications are for a yield of 22.7 pounds to the acre, compared with 23.5 pounds produced last year, and 19.8 pounds, the 10-year average.

The census bureau in its first ginning report of the season announced 137,076 running bales, counting round as half bales, of this year's growth had been ginned prior to Aug. 1 compared with 157,665 bales a year ago, and 142,083 bales two years ago.

The condition of the crop Aug. 1 and indicated production, by states, included:

Texas, condition 67 per cent of normal, and production 2,377,000.

CITIZENSHIP URGED TO ATTEND MEETING OF TAX COMMITTEE

TO BE HELD PRIOR TO HEARING ON BUDGET FOR NAVARRO COUNTY

Members of the board and other interested citizens were urged to attend a meeting of the county-wide tax committee which will be called prior to the hearing on the budget for Navarro county next Tuesday at the regular meeting of the directors of the Corsicana Chamber of Commerce Tuesday morning.

Minutes of the last session were read and approved after President J. M. Dyer had called the meeting to order. Among the communications presented for the attention of the board were announcement of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce contest for largest attendance at a county budget hearing; announcement that plans were being made for a meeting of parties interested in formation of a soil conservation district; insistence that a freight rate questionnaire be answered promptly to provide material for desired adjustments.

Promote Cooperation. A letter was read from the Ennis Chamber of Commerce promising every co-operation in that territory to insure the success of the Corsicana Livestock and Agricultural Show, another called attention to the new federal highway designation through Corsicana from Colorado via Fort Worth and on into Beaumont.

J. N. Edens stated the budget hearing to be held by the commissioners court was an important matter and one in which every citizen and business man should be interested, and should attend.

He said the budget law should be budget law closer than many but the members of the court would welcome any assistance or constructive criticism.

At the suggestion of R. A. Purdy, the chamber secretary, the Ennis leaders for their expression of co-operation and friendliness.

Salesmanship School. Jack D. Brown of Fort Worth, member of the faculty of Texas Christian University, appeared before the board and outlined the plans for holding an intensive four night school salesmanship school, selling psychology in Corsicana early next week. He submitted recommendations from other towns in which similar schools have been held, and at the conclusion of his speech the board of directors agreed to give their approval to the project.

It was announced that plans for advertising the appearances of the Galveston Community Circus at the rodeo and chowchow Aug. 31, Sept 1 had been completed and would be inaugurated later this week.

F. H. Harvey, Jr., chairman of the district committee reported his group was still studying the possibilities of development of the city's hot mineral water resources. He distributed a pamphlet containing a resume of recent findings in connection with the project.

Livestock Show. Officials of the Corsicana Livestock and Agricultural Show reported plans almost perfected, committees named, and other work well under way in connection with the second annual presentation Oct. 3-7.

A. P. Bralley, who will assume his duties as assistant county agent on August 16, was introduced to the board and expressed his pleasure at being able to work with the adults and boys of Corsicana and Navarro county.

The "Goodwill Banquet" to be held at Forest August 15 under the sponsorship of the Intergovernmental committee was announced.

J. F. Adams reported to the board numerous complaints were being received because of the strict enforcement of truck load weight provisions in the vicinity of Corsicana but the directors took no action on the matter.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Mr. Edens urged those present to secure copies of the Navarro county revised tax survey prepared by Curtis Morris of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce staff and study it. He also urged attendance at the budget hearing.

OIL PRICES

Huge Revenue Loss. OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 10. (AP)—A total of faces a loss of about $1,500,000 a year in revenue from the gross production tax on oil, should other major companies follow Sinclair-Prairie's lead in cutting the price of crude 20 cents a barrel, informed observers here said today.

Such a loss would raise again the possibility of a special session of the legislature to balance the budget.

COMPETITION HELD AS CAUSE FOR LOW PRICE COTTONSEED

COLLEGE STATION, Aug. 10. (AP)—The current low price for cottonseed is caused not by any over-supply of the commodity, but by competition from hog lard and soy beans.

This situation was explained here in the course of a conference between H. G. Womble, president of the South Texas Cottonseed Association, and representatives of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service.

Womble said cottonseed oil represents more than half of the value of cottonseed. The large and cheap supply of corn in prospect means a large and cheap supply of hog lard, which in turn means a cheap price for cottonseed oil.

It is estimated that the current year's production of pigs will reach 85,000,000 and that these will render 1,800,000,000 (one billion, 800 million) pounds of lard—the third largest output since 1923. Foreign markets for around 600,000,000 pounds of lard have largely been lost.

Meanwhile soy bean production has greatly increased. Ten years ago the soy bean cake production was 40,000 tons and for the past year, 100,000 tons. Thus soy beans offer competition not only to cottonseed oil, but cottonseed cake.

"It is worth thinking about to note that, because of our freight rate situation, a ton of soy bean meal can be shipped from Decatur, Illinois, to Dallas for $4 less than a ton of cottonseed cake can be shipped from Dallas to Decatur," Paul G. Haines, extension economist, commented.

O'DANIEL DECLARES IS NOT ADVOCATE OF EXCESSIVE TAXATION

GOVERNOR ALSO GIVES VIEWS ON STATE'S SOCIAL SECURITY OBLIGATIONS

AUSTIN, Aug. 8. (AP)—Business can't be bootied around as a political football in Texas is to develop industrially, in the opinion of Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel.

In a radio address last night, the chief executive said he had never advocated excessive taxation for new industry. He also gave his views on the state's obligation in social security financing.

"However, that cannot be legislated," he said, "there can hardly be anyone who will deny that work makes work. It's no different than saying that money makes money."

He added it seemed logical that development of industry might offer a solution to social security financing, expressing the opinion however, that families able to do so should care for their own indigents.

The governor said: "It has never been my intention to advocate excessive taxes on any new industry in this state to further the care of the indigent, or for any other purpose. My comments on increased revenue for the state through industrialization were based on benefits that might be accumulated through volume of industry and not by penalty for capital structure, individual or collective."

"If we can produce new industries it is logical to assume that any industry profiting from the natural resources of this state and through the patronage of Texas citizens would expect to contribute to the state treasury through reasonable assessment according to the sound requirement of the state. Volume would produce the revenue—not tax crucifixion of the enterprising manufacturers."

Citing construction of a new print mill in East Texas as one of several encouraging signs of re-growth in industrial progress, the governor said that in his opinion the time has been ripe "for quite awhile" for Texas to go forward.

THE RECORD.... Facts That Concern You

$2,132,891.90* TO THE RESCUE

AND that's just the beer tax revenue this state itself collects... to lift the burden of direct taxation from your shoulders. Nationwide, beer contributes over a million dollars a day to the cost of government. Think what that means in paying for relief, in public works, in old age assistance right in your own community.

Then think of the million new jobs that beer made. And then add to that a 100 million dollar market for farmers' crops!

How can we keep these benefits for you and for us? Brewers of America realize this depends on keeping beer retailing as wholesome as beer itself. They want to help public officials in every possible way. They cannot enforce laws. But they can—and will—cooperate!

May we send you a booklet telling of their unusual self-regulation program? Address: United Brewers Industrial Foundation, 19 East 40th Street, New York, N. Y.

ARMY NEEDS MORE TRAINING BEFORE BATTLE MANASSAS

GENERAL MARSHALL, CHIEF OF STAFF, SAYS U. S. ARMY
NOT WELL TRAINED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall, the army's new chief of staff, reported today after inspecting preparations for another "battle of Manassas" that the troops need more training for large scale operations.

He said the army suffers by comparison with foreign forces, and with the navy and air corps, because of lack of opportunity and war games such as will be waged in Virginia and New York state next week.

At the same time Marshall noted the smooth mobilization of nearly 20,000 national guardsmen at Manassas, Va., for the maneuvers of the First Field Army, disclosed "impressive advances" in fighting efficiency in the four years since similar maneuvers were staged in the east.

"These large scale operations," he said in an interview, "are the most valuable training the army can receive and there should be more of it by all means."

The approximately 8,000,000 men under arms in a tense Europe are represented largely by reservists, who, Marshall said, are called into service for weeks and months at a time.

"Our national guardsmen have but two weeks in the field," he said.

TOTAL SUPPLY OF ALL OILS SHOWS SLIGHT DECLINE

WHILE STOCKS INCREASED IN MAY, JUNE SHOWED CON-SIDERABLE DECLINE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(AP)—The Bureau of Mines today reported the June total supply of all oils at 556,559,000 barrels, or 142 days' supply as compared with 558,984,000 barrels in May and 583,570,000 in June last year.

Whereas stocks increased 245,000 barrels in May they declined 2,425,000 in June. This, officials said, was due principally to the fact nearly 5,000,000 barrels were withdrawn for the market during June as compared with a small withdrawal in May.

Also, they said, the June daily average production of 3,488,900 barrels of crude oil was 78,900 less than in May. The June decline followed seven successive months of increased production. Total crude stocks on June 30, the bureau said, virtually were at the lowest point since the initial accumulation in 1922.

The decline in production occurred almost wholly in Texas where the daily average dropped to 90,000 barrels due to the fact the fields were shut down 8 days, two more than in May. Illinois and Michigan continued to establish new records. The Illinois average arose from 220,000 barrels in May, to 236,100 in June. California and Oklahoma had small declines, but Louisiana and Kansas made small gains.

June stocks of motor fuel amounted to 81,144,000 barrels compared with 84,554,000 in May and 80,676,000 the previous June.

Domestic motor fuel demand totaled 49,812,000 barrels or three per cent more than last year. Exports reached 4,459,000 barrels. Finished gasoline stocks declined 400,000 barrels in June, less than a year ago, and the total on hand on June 30 stood at 74,395,000 barrels.

Fire thought to have been caused from occupants of the house smoking out mosquitoes did an estimated $25 damage to a house occupied by Earline Taylor, nee-gress, at 704 East Thirtieth, at 8 o'clock Wednesday night. Acting Fire Chief Howard Bivins reported today that two mattresses, one bed, and some bedclothing and wallpaper was destroyed or damaged by fire.

Damage estimated at $2,000 resulted from fire which destroyed a house and its contents at 1407 East Eighth avenue at 12:30 Thursday morning. The house was occupied by Extell Harris, nee-gress. Acting Chief Bivins reported $1,500 insurance was carried. Origin of the fire was undetermined.

ELECTRIC FENCE MORE EFFICIENT AND COSTS LESS

TUPELO FARMER FIRM BELIEVER IN MODERN METHODS NOW USED

RICE, Aug. 8.—(Spl.)—Less than one-fifth as expensive and 100 per cent more efficient than the ordinary three wire fence was the way D. C. Gatlin, Tupelo farmer, described the electric fence now coming into general use on farms in Navarro county.

"One mile of properly constructed three-wire fence will cost about $100," he explained, "but by using small posts placed 30 to 40 feet apart and by using only one wire, the same amount of electric fence can be built for $20."

Great Problem.

"Fencing has always been one of the greatest problems of the farm, and very few farms in this county are properly fenced at the present time," he said. "While it has been a problem, now that we have more than 100,000 acres of so-called government land on our hands, it becomes necessary that we do something about it if we are to realize any revenue from this vast acreage."

The electric fence, which is now coming into general use, can be used to solve the fencing problem in a very satisfactory manner, Mr. Gatlin believes.

The electric fence is more efficient than the old-fashioned three-wire fence, Mr. Gatlin said. "The three-wire fence will usually hold back only part of the livestock, and needs constant repair, while the electric fence will hold all the livestock and requires little upkeep," he added.

Cost Is Little.

The Tupelo farmer explained that depending on the charges for putting the current into the fence will cost from $10 up; insulators will cost about two cents each; and a hot-shot battery that will operate the fence from four to six months will cost $1.40. A six-volt storage battery will last from two to three years and should be charged every four months, Mr. Gatlin said.

Explaining the many more uses electric fences can be put to than the old-fashioned fences can, Mr. Gatlin said besides fencing pastures, lots, making lanes, and cutting off fields after harvest, the electric fences are proving valuable in controlling Johnson grass.

"as it takes very little time to string wires around ditches, turn rows and other waste land that usually grows up in grass and then spreads to the rest of the farm."

"I have had one of the fences in operation on our farm at Tupelo for the past year and have found it to be entirely satisfactory," Mr. Gatlin concluded.

JOB SUPPLIED FOR MANY DURING MONTH BY STATE SERVICE

Jobs for a total of 188 persons were supplied in July through the operations of the Texas State employment Service, ranging from stenographic work to places according to B. T. O'Connell, manager of the Corsicana office.

The manager stated the posts were filled from lists of workers who had previously registered with the local office. He reported a total of 222 personal calls in all categories during the month which included calls from unemployed, makers of unemployment compensation claims, calls from employers, and surveys made to determine available positions.

Mr. O'Connell reported 210 farm jobs were filled during the month.

Alleged Burglar Fails Get Loot At Kereks Theatre

KEREKS, Aug. 8.—(Spl.)—An attempted robbery of the Navarro theatre Sunday night was foiled because the new manager, Dan Fickett, did not use his waste paper basket as a receiver of these night's receipts. The would be burglar seemed to have known that to be the habit of the former manager.

Nothing else was bothered but the waste basket which was rifled and contents emptied on the floor. Entrance to the building was made through the front door.

FARM PESSIMISM

If any reader hankers for a good dose of pessimism he can find it in a recent address by Benjamin C. Marsh, executive secretary of the People's Lobby, Inc., of Washington, D. C. Our national situation looks very dark to him.

Agriculture, he finds, is largely controlled by landed banking farmers, operating through the American Farm Bureau, the National Grange, the Associated Farmers of California and the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union, and these will be "the backbone of any Fascist movement in America, as they are today America's rural Wall Street."

Most farmers abroad, he says, are peasants and "land animals." Our American farmers, he explains, are not land animals but "land values." Most of them consider themselves "middle class capitalists."

That isn't so bad in some ways. But Mr. Marsh is very depressing when he says that "all the good lands of the nation long since passed into the hands of private speculators," and that "with mechanization so tremendously advanced, with the government and non-government debt greater than the national wealth, and with major corporations waterlogged with fictitious capitalization, it doesn't make much difference what millions of farmers ask, nor for whom they vote." Are things really so bad as that?

It is easier to follow him when he adds that "government has got to do those things which will raise the standard of living of the masses of farmers and other consumers, or have serious trouble in the near future."

MUSICAL FAMILY.

America seems to be subjected to a musical invasion composed of the family of the Rev. William Fetter, pastor of the Baptist church in Riga, Latvia. He came to attend the Baptist World's Congress in Atlanta. The pastor and his wife brought 12 of their 13 children with them.

These dozen children constitute an orchestra, ranging in age from four to 17, and looking rather like a pipe organ when they stand up on a concert stage. Jojo, the youngest, plays the cymbals, and Jackie, aged six, is the conductor. They seem to have a grand time with their snare drum, trumpet, trombone, bass drum various horns, and one thing and another. And the audience doesn't seem to object much.

Why the musical escort for Pastor Fetter—w h o was exiled from Czarist Russia for opposing the powerful monk Rasputin? Well, their home town liked them, so they came over to balance the family budget and leave their father free for his spiritual work.

There's an idea for large families; But how and where does Father find time and peace to compose his sermons?

"There is a tide in the affairs of men" which washes up on the beach a lot of queer human fishes.

Dictators always go wrong eventually, because nobody left to tell them what fools they are.

It's usually hard to forgive people for being better than we are.

BUSY MAN'S NOTION.

If I had nothing on earth to do,
I fancy with line and hook
I'd hasten down for an hour or two
To fish in a silver brook.

I'd look at the white clouds sailing by
And think of the pretty sight.
I'd paint on the canvas of the sky
My visions of true delight.

I'd friendly be with the willow trees
And swallow and singing wren,
I'd let my cramped soul stretch
at ease

Away from the haunts of men.

I think such things I should surely do
If never a task had I.
But I must labor this morning through

Nor pause to stare at the sky.
Yet one I know has no work to do,
A shikher from head to toes!
He idles the useful mornings

CHERRY WEDDING.

Advertising of climates and localities by means of festivals is usually a gay and harmless procedure, even if somewhat silly in character. People cannot be serious all the time and most of them enjoy parades and jollity. A recent cherry festival, however, sounded a somewhat sour note. A couple was to be married while standing in a huge tank of cherry juice as the high point of the affair.

Memory was evoked by this in the mind of one of our readers of a neighbor Irish woman who was used to tell her children, his playmates, "Don't sing and frolic at the table. You should have more respect for your food."

At the time, our reader says, those were just amusing words to the group of children who heard them. Later on in life, learning something of the realities of war, drouth, famine, he knew what it meant to have respect for food. And he likes his frolics and festivals as much as ever, he says, but he doesn't quite like that cherry juice wedding. It seems to him not to exalt the fruits of the earth which was the intention, but somehow to demean them. A mammoth cherry pie, now, to take the place of a wedding cake, would have advertised the region more pleasantly. And cherry juice belongs not in tanks, but in jars for the winter's jams, jellies, gelatin desserts—and how he does love canned cherries with his custard tapioca pudding!

"Maybe I'm just too serious-minded for this modern world," he concludes, "wanting respect for my cherry pie and everything, but I'm going to get one more thought off my chest before I stop:

"Isn't the dignity of marriage something?"

MODERN OLD ROMANS

It is pretty well known that ancient Romans were civilized and made quite a bit of progress in business and the fine arts, but few people of this age have suspected how modern they were.

Many surprising facts have been discovered in recent excavations of the old Roman seaport of Ostia, at the mouth of the River Tiber. They seem to have had there very much our sort of "culture," including labor rules. Tablets dug from the sand indicate that the Ostians went in more strongly for bathing than we do. Their laborers worked six hours a day. They had five-and-ten-cent stores.

They were much addicted to divorce, too, although we probably beat them a little in a speed of such proceedings. It took the Ostians two months for a legal separation.

Business men employed many office employees, but with this difference—the secretaries, clerks and typists were all men. There were many streets of little shops containing small compartments for a sale of all sorts of things, the first department stores. The whole place in its general plan strikingly resembles an American city.

The strangest thing about that civilization was that the statesmen worked harder than other people.

WE'LL SOON KNOW!

COUNTING THINGS.

You think you're poor, don't you? You look at the newspaper ads and see all the things your family ought to have, and you wisely plan to buy one or two of them tomorrow or next week.

But how many things do you think you already have in your house? You'd be surprised. The men in Hollywood; who prepare properties for pictures know how many you use. The average middle-class American household will have from 900 to 1400 items in it. For a recent picture, 2,100 separate props were collected for scenes within a home.

Look around you for a few minutes. You'll begin to feel rich. It's a grand feeling. You'll want to go out and buy a few more!

PARKING

The most insistent problem in American cities is finding a place to park. Of the two great practical needs created by the automobile—adequate thoroughfares and convenient parking space—the latter is now the more insistent. In big cities a motorist may drive miles before finding a place to leave his car, and then must travel by foot or trolley or bus to reach his destination.

The natural result, slowly emerging, is two fold. First there is the establishment of more spacious public garages and open-air parking spaces downtown, the latter often attained by tearing down buildings. The second and most modern development is the housing of cars within business buildings, hotels, apartment houses or factories where their owners live or work.

A good example is the new office building garage in the Rockefeller Center in New York, accommodating 800 cars. We shall soon have such facilities in smaller cities.

A Nazi spokesman now condemns Britain for "disturbing the peace of Europe."

Political scalps are seldom worth what they cost.

This conference was not competitive but was in the nature of a summer vacation, where the boys enjoyed swimming, boating and other athletic events at the camp on the shores of Lake Worth. More than 1000 future farmers from over the area were present, and prepared their own meals.

Located in Corsicana, Dr. E. F. Waters, formerly of Huntsville, has arrived in Corsicana and has become associated with Dr. A. T. Rhoads as osteopathic physician and surgeon with offices in the State National Bank building. He and his family reside at 1208 West Third avenue.

RESIDENT SAYS COURT OBJECTIVE HAS BEEN REACHED

DECLARES RECENT CRITICISM OF SUPREME COURT SHOWS BEEN LIBERALIZED

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 8.—(P)—Claiming fulfillment of all objectives of his 1937 court reorganization program, President Roosevelt began today three weeks of work and recreation far from Washington's humid heat.

Mr. Roosevelt arrived at 7:24 a. m. (CST) and motored to the country home to spend several days working on a stack of some 200 bills passed in the closing days of congress.

White from a press conference, Mr. Roosevelt said that the Supreme Court had no engagements for the day.

The president was expected to remain at his Dutchess county home at least until Saturday. At the time he planned to go to New York and board the cruiser Tuscarora for a cruise of the New England and Canadian coasts.

A few hours before he left the capital last night the chief executive unexpectedly issued a statement saying:

"Attacks recently made on the supreme court itself by ultra-conservative members of the bar indicate how fully our liberal ideas have already prevailed."

The president's comment, recalling the bitter controversy over his defeated proposal to enlarge the supreme court, was occasioned by his signing of a bill which created an administrative officer to oversee affairs of all federal courts.

Proposed Split Congress

That measure was one of several parts of his original proposal, which split democratic ranks in congress and created a nationwide argument. Six of the parts have been enacted into law, Mr. Roosevelt said, and added the seventh "has been accomplished through the supreme court itself."

"The country is naturally concerned with attainment of proper objectives rather than any one of many possible methods proposed for accomplishment of the president's statement continued."

"I called attention (two and a half years ago) to the unwarranted attitude of the supreme court with reference to the exercise of its constitutional powers. Measures of social and economic reform were being impeded or defeated by narrow interpretation of the constitution and by assumption on the part of the supreme court of legislative powers which properly belonged to the congress."

Objectives Achieved

"It is true that the precise method, which I recommended, was not adopted, but the objectives, as every person in the United States knows today, were achieved. The results are not even open to dispute."

Since the senate killed this supreme court bill just two years ago, Mr. Roosevelt has appointed four justices to the tribunal, and congress gradually has authorized administrative changes in the federal court system to speed up its work. The president's statement listed these changes as follows:

Appointment of 25 additional federal judges, with a newly approved bill authorizing five more. "The congested condition and the delay," the president said, "have been almost eliminated."

Reassigning of Judges

Provision for reassigning judges more readily to areas where the courts were in greatest need.

Giving the attorney general the right to intervene in private cases involving constitutionality of federal laws, and placing limitations on issuing lower court injunctions in such cases.

Authorizing direct and immediate appeal to the supreme court of cases involving constitutionality of federal laws, with these cases getting precedence over all others.

Extending to supreme court justices retirement privileges on full pay after they have reached the age of 70 and have served 10 years.

Appointment of an administrative officer so that the federal judiciary can oversee its own

TRUSTEES PRIZE FUND STUDY RULES AND REGULATIONS

HILLSBORO MAN SAYS REQUIRE USE 300,000 BALES COTTON TOO HIGH

AUSTIN, Aug. 10.—(P)—Trustees of a $10,000 state fund, offered to any Texan developing a new use for cotton resulting in increased consumption, began determining administrative regulations today.

Meeting in Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel's office, Dr. Homer F. Rainey, president of the University of Texas, and Dr. T. O. Walton, president of A. and M. college, trustees, conferred with Burrell Jackson of Hillsboro, chairman of the state-wide cotton committee, on preliminary phases of the plan.

Clifford Jones, president of Texas Technological college, third trustee, was unable to attend.

The officials indicated they would ask the research subcommittee of the statewide cotton group to submit recommendations for operation of the plan. The research subcommittee includes cotton experts of several state supported colleges.

The award was authorized by an act of the legislature and stipulates new uses qualifying for the award must boost consumption by 300,000 bales annually. Jackson expressed opinion the stipulation was too stringent and should be reduced to 30,000 bales by a succeeding legislature.

SNITE

Teresa is a wonderful young woman. They have known each other since long before Fred's illness."

She said Miss Larkin, whose home is in Dayton, O., attended Georgian Court, a girls school in Lakewood, N. J., with Fred's sister Mary Loretta.

Friends said the girls met at the school in 1932 and Miss Larkin frequently visited the Snite home. During the Snite's travels in China, where Fred was stricken with infantile paralysis in 1938, Miss Larkin kept up a correspondence with Miss Snite.

Young Snite, a smiling, curly-haired graduate of Notre Dame University, has attracted worldwide attention since he was stricken. He was placed in a respirator in Peiping on April 1, 1938.

Since then his father, Fred Snite, Sr., head of a loan bank system here, has spent a fortune in an effort to restore his son to normal health.

In recent months young Snite has been able to leave his respirator, an huge, round, boiler-like device for hours at a time. During these interludes, while he sat in the sun or read, he donned a lightweight aluminum and rubber lung which fits over his chest.

Although no wedding date was announced by the family, an attendant of the Cook county clerk's office said notice of intention to wed was filed August 7 and required medical tests were completed under Illinois law. The ceremony may be performed three days after that date.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—(P)—Rep. Thompson (D-Texas) said President Roosevelt had expressed deep interest in development of the Big Bend National Park in Texas.

The campaign said he called on the president yesterday to tell him of the campaign Texas citizens are making to obtain funds for acquisition of land for the park.

President Signs

Deficiency Bill

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 10.—(P)—President Roosevelt signed today the third deficiency bill appropriating more than $185,168,066 for varied federal activities.

The largest fund in the bill is $117,000,000 for the Commodity Credit Corporation, a sum which Secretary Wallace said recently was necessary to prevent a slump in farm prices to 1932 levels.

The bill brought the session's appropriation total, according to records of the house appropriations committee, to the peace-time high of $13,343,743,452.

FAILURE CONGRESS TO ACT ON CERTAIN MEASURES DEPLORED

PRESIDENT DECLARES LEGISLATORS TOOK GAMBLERS' CHANCE IN ACTS

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 9.—(P)—Having sent a parting shot at those legislators who blocked his neutrality, lending and housing programs, President Roosevelt tackled today a file of bills which congress did approve in its closing days.

Mr. Roosevelt said at a press conference yesterday he still had to act on 145 bills which he had not yet examined and about 10 more which he had sent back, for study, to interested government departments.

It was at that conference that he said a solid republican minority, and about 22 per cent of the democrats in the house and 25 per cent of those in the senate, had gambled on neutrality and the lending and housing proposals.

They gambled, he said, that there would be no war until they had had time to act on neutrality after reassembling next January, and that private business would absorb millions of individuals who will lose by next spring jobs provided by WPA and PWA projects.

From the point of view of the country and for the good of the world, the President said he hoped sincerely the bets were good ones. But he said the congressional coalition had taken a terrific chance.

If the neutrality wager is lost, Mr. Roosevelt asserted, 500,000 jobs may be affected. His hands will be tied, and he will have virtually no power to attempt to prevent an outbreak of war.

He bet on the lending and housing measures is had, he said, 5,000,000 workers, and 15,000,000 of their dependents who rely on WPA and PWA for a livelihood.

Responsibility On Minorities

Repeatedly, the President said responsibility will rest not on congress as a whole but on the republican and democratic minorities who have lost. Their apparently was no reason in his tone and he intimated he had no intention of bringing legislative issues before the country in a presidential swing in October.

Mrs. Roosevelt, who was making a rare appearance at a presidential press conference, suggested her husband tell about a time when they had discussed over the breakfast table.

The President wagged a thumb toward her and said he had been telling the Misses this:

WPA rolls will be cut from 3,000,000 to 2,000,000 and PWA will have ceased giving jobs to 2,000,000 by next spring. That will mean a precipitous drop in employment.

The lending bill was designed to provide a gradual descent, but the congressional coalition favored the route of the precipice when it gambled that private industry would take up the slack in jobs.

It is difficult to get down a precipice without endangering life and limb; a safe descent means a slow one, he asserted.

Congressional Foes

Take Issue With FDR

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(P)—Congressional foes of the administration neutrality and lending programs took sharp issue today with President Roosevelt's assertion a coalition of republicans and democrats had gambled with the nation's welfare by refusing to pass those bills.

"The president really ought to look over the roll calls," said Senator Adams (D-Colo.), an economy advocate. "There was no coalition. Individual members merely voted their own convictions."

Adams charged the groups which opposed senate consideration of the neutrality bill and which shelved the lending bill in the house were quite different.

Rep. Michener (R-Mich) said he thought independent democrats in congress had joined with independent republicans to do an "outstanding piece of work" in blocking the lending bill.

"The coalition, or whatever the president wants to call it, has stopped the American people just before they were over the financial precipice," Michener said. "Congress is merely carrying out the will of the people. Nobody is going to starve and Mr. Roosevelt needn't."

COUNTERFEIT RING MAY BE CONNECTED WITH MURDER GIRL

MYSTERY, HOWEVER, STILL SURROUNDS BRUTAL NEW JERSEY SLAYING

CAMDEN, N. J., Aug. 9.—(P)—Possibility developed today that a counterfeit money ring may be linked to the Lovers Lane slaying of Wanda Dworecki, 17-year-old minister's daughter.

Detectives investigating that angle recalled the album-haired girl's father, the Rev. Walter Dworecki, a Polish Baptist minister, was arrested in 1935 on charges of passing a bogus $5 bill. He was given a suspended sentence in federal court.

The slaying yesterday occurred a few days after seven men and women were held on charges of complicity in a counterfeit ring's operations in Camden and several nearby communities.

Chief of County Detectives Lawrence P. Doran said five young men were questioned last night but failed to shed any light on the identity of the person who beat and strangled Miss Dworecki to death and tossed her body from an automobile along a highway.

"We also read every letter found in the girl's home and these were of no importance," Doran said. "Her father told us she did not have a steady boyfriend."

Doran said the girl was insured for $2,695 and that in addition to the life insurance, she had a $10,000 accident policy payable to her father as beneficiary under certain conditions.

He added the $2,695 insurance was made up of these policies: $445, beneficiary unnamed; $250, mother as beneficiary, and two $1,000 policies with her father as beneficiary.

Detectives expressed belief that if they could locate the man who abducted, beat and choked Miss Dworecki last April, then tossed her from an automobile 25 miles from her home, they would be close to the solution of her slaying.

The girl's father held a similar view. Miss Dworecki left her home Monday night to "go to a drug store."

Police reported the girl had been molested, beaten or threatened by a man on an auto at least two other occasions.

Chief County Detective Lawrence P. Doran said after the April abduction and beating Miss Dworecki was hospitalized for several weeks, her father requested gallery photographs but had not identified any as her assailants.

He quoted her father as saying that during her recovery, she received two telephone calls from a man who warned:

"You'd better tell Wanda to keep her mouth shut—or some body is going to get bumped off."

worry—congress will be on the job again. I really don't want to sample WPA funds to carry on until that time."

Close Committee Action

The administration's neutrality program brought down in the senate foreign relations committee, where five republicans, five democrats, a progressive and a former laborer voted to defer consideration, with 11 democrats favoring immediate action.

Senator McCarran (D-Nev), one of those opposed to repeal of the arms embargo expressed his concern that the world would have a "real sort" of neutrality—that it did not propose to "make more millionaires out of munitions manufacturers" by permitting the sale of arms to warring nations.

"Congress was not gambling on the future," he said, "when it announced that it would have this country remain neutral by keeping aloof from foreign entanglements and by refusing to show favoritism in the foreign conflict by making one belligerent a preferred creditor over another."

On the other hand, Senator Schwellenbach (D-Wash), who supported the administration efforts to obtain neutrality revision said he agreed with the president that a gamble was taken, but felt it was caused by expiration of the "cash and carry" provision of the law.

"With that safeguard gone," Schwellenbach said, "we remain in the same position we held in 1916, with the possibility that our profits in somebody else's war might involve us in that war."

SOUTH MAY COMPETE WITH NORTH IN RAW IRON ORE MARKET

PLANS DISCUSSED FOR ORE REDUCTION PLANT ON HOUSTON CHANNEL

HOUSTON, Aug. 9.—(P)—Southern competition with the north in the raw ore market was forecast today as plans for construction of an ore reduction plant on the Houston ship channel were being discussed.

The possibility Houston may become the center of a revival of the East Texas iron ore industry was seen when it was learned H. C. Cockburn, Houston oil man, had executed an option for 100 acres of land for the site.

A. S. Bergendahl, Houston consulting engineer, has been working on a new natural gas smelting method which will be used at the plant.

Bergendahl's method should warm the heart of Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel in that all the elements used in it come from Texas—the ore, the natural gas, the oyster shell.

His method is easily explained. The ore is crushed to the proper size and then an ore chamber, where it is mixed with the proper proportions of lime and powdered petroleum coke.

It is then placed in a combustion chamber which heats up to between 1,000 and 1,200 degrees, then to a third which has a temperature of 2,500 to 3,500 degrees.

Then it goes to the final melting chamber where it is drained into pig molds. The slag goes to the chimbels and the hot fumes are whisked out through a stack.

The original plans include two cylindrical gas smelters which will be driven by electrical power generated by gas. Each of the smelters will produce 100 tons of pig iron daily.

Other units will be added when the plant increases its sales to consumers in the southern area. Bergendahl believes 1,000 tons of pig iron are daily used by consumers in the southern area. Creation of the plant on the ship channel, he believes, will give them a new market.

Pig iron costs $24 a ton in the north and $18 a ton in the southern area, Bergendahl said he can manufacture pig iron at a cost of $13.50 a ton and sell it below the prevailing prices.

SINCLAIR

is the highest on record. Yet the oil industry is losing money in the home market.

Why didn't the other big oil companies go along with Sinclair when he tried to raise gasoline prices in June?

Here are two theories you will hear in the trade:

(1) Standard Oil of New Jersey, Gulf Oil, Shell, and many other big producers enjoyed a faster export trade. Even though their sales of gasoline in the United States may show no profit, they still enjoy handsome earnings from products sold abroad.

(2) Many of Sinclair's competitors have producing fields in Illinois, where there is no state conservation department and no production "wides open." Sinclair has no Illinois fields.

Executives say that if other major producers cut crude oil prices to match Sinclair's it isn't likely lower gasoline prices will follow, for current gasoline prices are said already to have been lowered in anticipation of cheaper crude quotations.

AUSTIN, Aug. 10.—(P)—The comptroller's department estimated today a general reduction of 20 cents per barrel in the price of crude oil would mean a loss to this state of $150,000 to $200,000 per year in revenue from the production tax.

The tax is 2 3/4 cents per barrel when oil sells for $1 or less per barrel and 2 3/4 per cent of value when the price is above $1.

Current posted prices in the East Texas field, major production area, is $1.10 and a 20-cent decline in price would not bring a 20 per cent loss of tax revenue. Statisticians said such a reduction would reduce revenues in East Texas about $45,000 and in other areas would increase the total to a possible maximum of $150,000.

The production tax for the first 10 months of the current fiscal year brought the state $11,738,372, compared with $13,173,144 for the same period a year ago. The reduction, comptroller's employees said, was due chiefly to price drops and lessened production.

DRENCHING RAINS COVER WEST TEXAS HEAD SOUTH, EAST

GENERAL PRECIPITATION IS AID TO RANGE LANDS AND CROPS PARTS OF STATE

By The Associated Press.

Hard rains drenched the parched crop and range lands in much of West Texas Monday night and Tuesday, and lowering clouds moved south and east, indicating moisture for other dry sections of the state.

The Dallas weather bureau predicted cloudy with thunder-showers for the north and east portions of East Texas, and for the southeast portion of West Texas Tuesday night. A high pressure area—meaning a mild cool wave—precipitating moisture borne on high winds from humid gulf regions.

At Abilene, farm experts said the rainfall will increase cotton production 100,000 bales in 20 counties in that section. Childress county, where rain was badly needed, had from two to three inches. Rainfall in the city was 2.25 inches, heaviest of the summer.

Other points reporting good to heavy rains included Spur, Quanah, 1.92, Snyder, .92, Seymour, .82, Haskell, .54, Alpine, .29, Amarillo, .50, Del Rio, .22, Clarendon, .08, Eastland, .28, Fort Stockton, .24, Borger, nearly an inch, Canyon, 1.21, with hard rain over Wilbarger county.

In that area and the Wichita Falls vicinity, there were general rains with 1.50 to 2 inches from Electra to Clarendon. Wichita Falls reported a "light north" with skies still overcast.

Rainfall that started early Tuesday morning reached 1.21 inches at Abilene by mid-morning. Reports there indicated good rains west to Pecos and north to Frederick, Okla.

Crews were running on King county ranches after rains of from two to three inches. Colorado City had 1.09, Sweetwater, .97, Knox City, 1.10, Cisco, 1.25, San Angelo, .15 at 10 a. m. adding to .38 yesterday.

The sky was cloudy over north Texas, and light showers were reported at some points. Denton had .10, the heaviest in more than a month.

Boy Drowned in Cloudburst

CLINTON, Ia., Aug. 8.—(P)—A seven-year old boy drowned and property damage totaled an estimated $50,000 in a cloudburst that brought more than two inches of rain here in two hours last night. A flooded creek eight miles west of here swept the car, in which Leonard Webber, 7, of Bryant, Ia., and his mother were riding, off a bridge approach. The mother was rescued.

HEALTH, BEAUTY AND POISE

HOW TO IMPROVE YOUR PERSONALITY
By VERONICA DENGEL

OIL YOUR HAIR

Here is the way to give your hair a hot-oil hair treatment. Remember that I promised this for today?

First brush your hair thoroughly. Part it into small sections, and brush each section up and out. Draw the brush lightly across the scalp because of the stimulating effect. Heat a little olive oil in a bowl placed in a bowl of boiling water. Then the oil will stay warm. With a small piece of cotton which has been dipped in the hot oil rub along a part in the hair. Then part the hair about an inch away and again rub with the oil. Continue this procedure until the whole scalp has been oiled, paying particular attention to the temples and the top of the head. Be careful not to get any more oil on the hair than you can help—it is the scalp we wish to lubricate!

Now, with a rotary motion, move the scalp in little circles with your fingers. Use both hands and press on the scalp a little as you slowly make small circles always moving the scalp. Then lift the fingers and place them in another spot. Massage the head thoroughly until it tingles with the new blood supply that you have stimulated. Now wrap the head in a warm towel and either leave it overnight, or at least for an hour or more. You will need to give it two extra soaps in your shampoo to be certain that every speck of oil is washed out. And then rinse it a number of times. Keep up the rinsing until your hair "squawks" in your fingers. This is an indication that it is clean. Now dry it in the sun if you possibly can; or rub it dry with warm towels. I have heard of people drying their hair in front of an oven, but this is a bad idea for you on two scores. First, you are quite likely to inhale the gas fumes, and secondly, the heat is far too intense for the good of your hair.

A grand time to wash your brush, is the day that you shampoo. Then, when you prepare for bed that night, you are ready with a clean brush for your lovely clean hair. But if you make it a rule to rinse your brush under the hot water after each use, it will always be fresh and clean for you. Only when your hair is clean and healthy can you expect the most beauty and service from your new coiffure. The set will last longer and be lovelier than usual.

PIERCE BROOKS IN CITY ON BUSINESS DISCUSSES PENSIONS DOES NOT BELIEVE GOVERNOR OR WILL CALL SPECIAL SESSION LEGISLATURE

Pierce Brooks, recent run-off candidate for lieutenant-governor, spent several hours in the city transacting business and visiting friends in this vicinity.

"It is very evident at this time that the governor will not call the legislature into special session," stated Mr. Brooks, who has been a considerable factor in the Austin. "Just how he will be able to overcome the demands that will be made after next month, I cannot say. With the additional 30,000 to 40,000 aged folks added to the list of pensioners, under the new pension bill, it very likely will reduce the amounts payable to each by the state to $3 or $4 after August. There will also be the demands of the teachers to provide money for their retirement fund which was voted by the people in 1935."

It will be recalled that Brooks led in the first primary, but was defeated by Stevenson in the runoff. His campaign was abruptly terminated during the second campaign when his car was overturned by a twister in West Texas. He states that he has fully recovered from this freak accident.

COLORFUL DRAMA OF ELISHA AND NAAMAN BEARS MESSAGE*

Military Hero Who Was a Leper Found It Hard To Accept Simplicity of Healing Plan — A Captive Maiden's Essential Part in a Famous Episode.

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS

Elisha is billed as the leading man in this Leason drama, but a little girl and a soldier "steal the show."

We are expectant of a review of the colorful life of the great Elisha, the prophet who, there first comes on the stage a pompous Syrian general, Naaman. He was high in favor with his king, because he had led armies to victory. His personal valor is attested; and he had all that a successful hero could desire—wealth, honors, authority.

But he was a leper.

Ah, the "buts" that qualify life's successes! Here is a famous industrial leader, with wealth by the millions—"but" his only son is dissolute and worthless. Here is a family with health and fine ideals—"but" stark poverty works their days. Here is a national leader with rare gifts—"but" he is a slave of drink. Here is a talented youth of whom family and friends expect much—"but" he is lazy and purposeless. There is a "but" after the name of almost every Naaman. The most loathsome of diseases clanked like a captive chain at every step the famous soldier took. The "but" was bigger than his palace, his power, his possessions.

Enter the Little Girl

One of the by-products of Naaman's innumerable campaigns was the capture of a little girl. Among the least of these was a little Hebrew maiden, who had been given to Naaman's wife as a personal servant. With its usual brevity, the Scripture says nothing of the girl's name, but the last word of the bitter tears that nightly wet her pillow. Desolate indeed was her lot, as she served in the sumptuous boudoir of her wealthy mistress, her thoughts ever turning to her home in Israel.

This little girl becomes the heroine of the drama; because she had a kindly, magnanimous spirit. She rose above bitterness and petty spite. Instead of rejoicing over her alien master's affliction, she felt sorry for him. And in the intimacy of personal servant and mistress, she told of a wonderful prophet in Israel, who could heal even leprosy. Her faith was a seed upon the proud woman's consciousness, for her husband's affliction was her greatest sorrow. So she repeated the servant's tale, and eventually it came to the ears of the king.

Great events hinged upon the compassionate interest of this one little slave girl. Nobody can foresee the consequences of a single word, not of kindness. The fear-filled and suffering old world sorely needs that Hebrew maiden's spirit of good will.

The King Speaks

Blustering like Mussolini, the king of Syria, confident in his authority, gave peremptory orders as soon as he glimpsed this gleam of hope for his favorite general. Proudful as a Japanese ultimatum, he told the king of Israel directed the latter to heal Naaman, who bore the message.

It was a typical utterance from a self-inflated autocrat. The rich gifts which accompanied it did not lessen the condescension of the Hebrew court, which saw in the strange demand an excuse for war. "Am I God, to kill and to make alive, that this man doth send unto me to recover a man or his leprosy?" There were the makings of a grave "incident" in the proud letter of Syria's king. Meanwhile, Naaman waited at the court of the Israelites, and was fated to wait.

A Prophet to the Rescue

News travels fast in court circles, and soon Elisha learned of the Syrian letter and of his king's distress. Let him come now to me," he said to the king, "and he shall know that there is a prophet in Israel." What royal might could not do lay within the province of a man of God.

With a vivid touch, the narrative pictures the Syrian man at the door of the prophet's humble dwelling, his horses and chariots and outriders attending him. Elisha was not impressed. He did not even deign to go out and speak in person to his visitor. Instead, he sent word that the distinguished general should go down to the Jordan and bathe seven times.

Cannot you hear the snort of indignation and contemptuous pride with which Naaman greeted the messenger? He, the great warrior, to go down to Israel's muddy Jordan and immerse himself! He had expected an elaborate ritual of healing, with his own proud self the important center of proceedings. Instead, he was bidden to go wash in an unattractive stream. Were not the Abanah and Pharpar, rivers of Damascus, better than all the waters of Israel? He turned and went away in a rage. "The world in its pride has often rejected the incredible simplicity of the Gospel's offer of salvation. Yet there is no other way of soul-heal than God's way."

The Warrior Leper Cleansed

His retinue, however, had more sense than Naaman had shown in his affronted dignity. They at last persuaded him to try the Israelite's simple expedient. So, reluctantly, and muttering the while, he went down and dipped himself seven times in the Jordan; and, lo! his flesh became again as the flesh of a little child.

Naaman, with all his arrogance, was still a gentleman; a gentleman returned to render thanks to Elisha, and to offer him rewards, which the prophet would not touch. He had not only been cleansed of his disease, but his spirit also had undergone a miracle of spiritual transformation. "Now I know that there is no God in all the earth, but in Israel." We may picture the joy in Syria when the healed general returned, and the pride and happiness of the little serving miss.

A Man of Good Will

Our Lesson topic well names Elisha. He was the prophet of helpfulness. He lacked the sterner gift of his master Elijah. Not his to shut up the heavens and to wage battle with a king. His story is a succession of miracles of good will. Of course, he was a patriot, and co-operated with his king against Israel's enemies. But he was definitely of the pastoral type, meeting the individual needs of people.

Not to know the colorful Elisha stories is to confess one's self illiterate. It is impossible to understand the frequent allusions in fine literature to the character and events of these historical books of the Old Testament, unless one has become familiar with them. And they are inherently more interesting than most of the tales that come from today's busy presses. Always they impart the consciousness of God as the chief factor in life.

FEVER

The RED SIGNAL of INFECTION

Anything in temperature above 99 indicates fever, and means the individual has an infection somewhere, except in cases of "heat stroke", where the temperature rises to an extreme degree from 106 to 110. A number of types of fever and many diseases are characterized by fairly definite types. For instance, in typhoid fever the temperature never gets normal during the entire 24 hours, after the disease gets under way, and the patient usually has a low pulse rate, considering the amount of temperature. In malaria there may be "intermittent fever". The fever comes up on certain days and disappears on others, caused by the definite cycle of activity on the part of the malaria germ. With tuberculosis the patient has a low grade of "remittent fever", the type that is down in the morning and up in the afternoon, with "sweats" when the patient sleeps. In pneumonia the fever is continuous, running at a relatively high level, usually coming on suddenly following a chill, and runs above 103 until the "crisis" passes. The suddenly disappearing fever is designated as the "cries" type—the gradually diminishing, as the "lysis" type.

Fever is a red light of danger, and when it persists more than a day, should be investigated. Remember this, while fever is always the sign of infection, it sometimes takes time to establish the seat of infection. The safest physician is the one who investigates carefully before making a diagnosis. Full co-operation of the patient can often shorten the period of investigation, as well as treatment.

FIND BODY OF MAN WANTED CONNECTION MURDER OF GIRL

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—(AP)—The body of Frank Japcynski, 37 year old alional Guardaman sought for questioning about the mysterious killing of a woman, was found today in Washington Park about three blocks from the armory where the woman was slain. Police found a pistol nearby. Miss Elsie Doolewerdt, 25, an attractive riding enthusiast, was found shot in the side and chest last night near the riding arena of the regimental armory on the far south side. One bullet had pierced her heart. Private Charles Held, on guard duty, told investigators he admitted the young woman to the building after being told by Japcynski she would call. Sergeants Albert Freeman and John Tillman said they were on the second floor when they heard a woman scream. Hurrying to the first floor they saw the girl resisting a man who was pulling her by the hand. The officers said the man, whom they could not identify in the dim light, pulled a pistol, fired three shots and fled.

Governor Rhode Island Asserts Not 'Garner' Man

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Aug. 10.—(AP)—John Nance Garner is not Gov. William H. Vanderbilt's candidate for president. Rhode Island's republican governor so notified today E. B. Germany, president of the "Garner-for-President" club, who had written Vanderbilt to thank him for his "support" of the Texas democrat for the presidential nomination.

It seems Germany had received a card endorsing Garner bearing the signature "William H. Vanderbilt, governor of Rhode Island." Governor Vanderbilt said he signed no such card.

MICKEY ROONEY'S FATHER TO ENTER MOVING PICTURES

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 10.—(AP)—Mickey Rooney's father is saying goodbye to the thing that has been his life for a quarter of a century. Joe Tule, Sr. is going to the pasture called Hollywood. He is retiring from burlesque tomorrow. He is going to get three times his present salary as a double talking comic for one-tenth as much work. But, best of all, he is going to be closer to Little Joe, Jr. Joe is going to be an actor in Mickey's studio. Of course, there's a lot of other important guys like Gabe and Boery to contend with in the same place, but to Joe it's Mickey's studio. Joe is not quite sure how this three-year contract came about. He knows Mickey had something to do with it. He thinks Mickey's mother, his former wife, was pulling for him, too.
